University Obtains Earth-Moving Equipment From Government

"The university can complete its excavating and landscaping program with a minimum of cost using this equipment," said Ernest R. Wolfe, supervisor of surplus property for the purchasing department.

He was referring to the three large machines parked in front and to the left of the library. There are two large diesel driven tractors, otherwise called an "earth mover," and D-7 caterpillar tractor with a mounted bulldozer blade.

This equipment was acquired from the government through the state as surplus material. The models are eight to ten years old but have had little or no use at all.

The tractors are the largest models available, capable of moving fifteen to eighteen tons of dirt in a single sweep. The "cat" is used to provide extra power when a tractor becomes temporarily stalled attempting to dislodge too much earth at one time. A crude "bumper" is located at the rear of the "cat" under such conditions.

"This equipment was made available to the university at a relatively small cost," continued Wolfe. "Freight and service charges were the only expense, and it amounted to only $1,500. When one stops to consider the actual value of the machines, he realizes the tremendous saving in this transaction."

The list price for an earth mover ten years ago was $43,000 and for a caterpillar tractor about $21,000. Today this equipment sells for considerably more.

The university will have experienced men from the operating engineers local when full-scale excavation gets underway.

"We hope to acquire another tractor and several more tractors," added Wolfe. "These machines will last a long time if serviced properly and, as one can see, they will be very valuable to SIU for the next few years in its construction program."

AWS Plans Activities At First Official Meet

The first official meeting of the Association of Women Students was held Jan. 24 in the office of Mildred Schreitzberger, dean of women, and faculty adviser of the group.

Plans were made to sponsor a second dance in the student union Feb. 23 immediately after the basketball game.

Another discussion was that of SIU's Student Council going national. The Council investigated going national last year, and before making further steps, decided to test the nation's efficiency by persuading them with a problem, namely AWS.

The AWS' by-laws state that all women students are eligible for membership, but as yet only a few are actually participating.

Another item discussed was the possibility of AWS sponsoring a series of meetings on career opportunities for women.

The orchestra will present a varied program highlighted by Edward Breen's "Concert Overture, Op. 27." Also on the program is "Semiramide," by Rossini, and Joseph Lippold's "Caucasian Slaves."

Performances with leading choral societies throughout the Midwest have been a part of her work. She has toured for the Civic Music Association and Community Concert Association.

Woody Donates To Relief Fund

The Woody Hall House Council last Monday decided to join the University and International Relations Club in their aim to sponsor a scholarship for a Hungarian refugee student at SIU.

The student will be given a scholarship for room and board plus money for any incidentals which may arise.

Woody Hall pledged $75.00 and has set a goal of $100.00 with hopes of raising that amount of money through donations from Woody's students and visitors. Just for contributions are placed throughout Woody for the purpose of collecting donations for the Hungarian drive.

APO Begins Plans For Ugly Man Contest

Alpha Phi Omega began the early stages of planning their third annual ugly man contest, Thursday at its meeting.

The ugly man contest is sponsored by APO, national service fraternity. It is expected to be held near the first of May.

Also discussed at the meeting was a campaign for the Egyptian Boy Scout Council. The purpose of the campaign will be to increase scouting skills in working toward better and more advanced merit badges. Art Carlisle, fraternity officer, said.

Officers for APO were elected. They are as follows: Bob Koopie, president; Art Carlisle, 2nd vice president; Bernard Seckwitz, 3rd vice president; Tom Blair, corresponding secretary; Cyril Dwyer, alumni secretary; Ray Johnson, treasurer; Ken Orsted, historian; and Dave Voice, sergeant-at-arms.

Editors of small daily newspapers from five states discussed local citizenship problems and community leadership opportunities at a Newspaper Editorial Policies Workshop in Cairo Saturday and Sunday. The workshop was sponsored by the Southern Illinois University Department of Journalism.

Area representatives of the Associated Press, United Press, and International News Service also attended the meeting, the first of its kind to be held off the SIU campus.

The main speaker at the event was Paul Tibbitt, managing editor of the Jackson, Miss., State Times, which has become a financial success despite severe competition since its founding two years ago.

Discussion topics and leaders included: "How Small Town Dailies and Radio Stations Can Live Together" by Marshall Poole, general manager of station WVLN, Olney; and "How to Develop Features and Good Local Pictures With a Small Staff" by William C. Boyne, editor of the Southern Illinoisan, Carbondale.

The workshop director was Charles C. Clayton, SIU visiting professor of journalism and editor of The Quill, magazine for journalists.

1,000th Student Registers For Spring Term

The 1000th student was rushed through advisement and sectional proceedings for the Spring quarter last Saturday.

"Registration has become a continuous process," said Dr. E. C. Coleman, chief academic adviser. "As soon as one quarter begins, registration for the next quarter starts."

"It is hoped that by Sept. 1, the new advisement center in the west wing of the library will be completed," said Dr. Coleman. "The present advisement center is overcrowded, and there are not enough facilities available to give individual attention to everyone registering."

Dr. Coleman stated that there is a possibility of the whole advisement system being changed.

"If we could think of another system that does the job as well but less expensively, then it would be put into use," Dr. Coleman said. "One policy that we have now which is an advantage over previous policy," said Coleman, "is the practice of having the chairman of the different departments sign the registrar's schedule cards. In this way the student and his department chairman can become more acquainted."

Who shall reign as Miss Anthony at Anthony Hall? This question and others will be answered next Friday night as the men of Anthony Hall prepare for their third and final Miss Anthony Contest before moving into one of the new residence houses this year.

Last year Pat Parson, now teaching in Belleville, was chosen to reign over Anthony's activities from a field of more than 30 girls.

This year about 30 young ladies from residence homes, sororities, organized houses, or any organization where 15 or more girls live, will be chosen. Forms have been sent to each of these organizations, registered through the Student Affairs Office, asking for a candidate to represent them in the contest.

Judged On Qualities
Girls chosen as candidates will be judged on three appearances. The first appearance is in a formal dress, then each candidate will model in a bathing suit, and finally each one will present a three-minute talent show. The judging will all take place and the queen will be chosen on Thursday night. However, neither she nor the five others with the highest points will be announced until Friday night, according to Gary Matheson, assistant chairman. Master of ceremony for this year's contest is Nathaniel Crookshank from St. Louis.

Large Crowd Expected
Nearly 150 people were present at Anthony last year, to see the crowning of Pat Parson. This year an estimated 175 are expected.

Marilyn Eckert, Miss Anthony Contest two years ago, will assist the girls in the procession.

"The purpose of a Miss Anthony Contest is to select a queen for activities at the Men's Residence Hall," Gary Matheson said. He stated that she would be the one to represent Anthony in many of the university's activities such as the Dolphin contest, the Spring Festival, and many other activities where a lady must be the representative."

"The queen is also our guest of honor at all times especially at dinners, dances, and we try to have her at least once each week for supper," Gary said.

Judge To Be Selected
Activities for Miss Anthony contest will be underlined by the annual supper honoring each of the chosen candidates. Although the judges haven't been selected, guests are expected to include: President and Mrs. Morris. Mr. and Mrs. Burgundy, head of Anthony, Dowdell, and Illinois residence ladies; Miss Janet Beckenridge, director at Woody; Jack Buckle, head resident of all residence houses; Joe Budde, head resident at VTI; Carl Anderson, resident fellow at Dowdell, and his wife; and John Cernak and Julius Johnson, residence fellows at Anthony.

Bob Tyler is chairman of the Miss Anthony Contest this year. Working along with him are three committees which include the decoration committee headed by Phil Sheridan, the finance committee headed by Gene Schuler, and the club up committee headed by Oliver "Ollie" Harris.

Student Union Party Tonight With Band

T.G.I.F. That's the theme for the Student Union party tonight. A night club atmosphere, complete with red-checked table cloths, waiters, and "champagne," is to be featured at the dance in the Student Union from 8:30 p. m. to midnight, according to R. K. Dillinger, Junior in business.

The Blue Tones, a new band making its debut on Southern's campus, will furnish the music, and there is to be surprise entertainment in the form of a floor show, Dillinger said.

Admission is free, but reservations can be made at the Student Union desk. This is an all-school event - sing or drag.

P.S. T.G.I.F. means "Thank God it's Friday."

L. O. Edlund

Following his graduation from Illinois the Delta Chi president served on the Men's Advisory Committee to the Dean of the College of Commerce at Illinois.

Edlund will give his kick-off address at 9 a. m., Saturday in the University School Auditorium.

Following the kick-off address discussion groups will be held by the fraternity men at 10:30 a. m. The topic for discussion will be rush procedures and changes.

At 11:30 the fraternity men will begin new topic discussions concerning fraternity expansion at SIU.

An Asset

SIU serves more than the educational needs of Southern Illinois. It has many functional services that benefit the entire area.

Meetings and conferences on the campus under the sponsorship of responsible off-campus organizations and groups are arranged through the Area Services Division office, which also arranges to take to communities various programs, activities, and resources of the University which may be useful to citizens. Southern's Audio-Visual Department's film library has more than 2,300 motion picture films and many film strips which serve the needs of more than 300 schools and adult organizations.

The Child Guidance Clinic studies cases of children having difficulty with school work, emotional adjustments, attitudes and personality conflicts. The Educational Research Services works with schools in matters of district reorganization, plant construction, curriculum, and other problems. The Department of Guidance and Special Education offers consultant services to schools.

The Local Government Center provides assistance to local government officials and helps analyze and solve governmental problems. The Psychological Services Center conducts adult study and discussion groups and public forums on parent-child relations and provides consulting service to industry in personnel and management problems. The Small Business Institute provides technical advice on small business operations. The Speech and Hearing Clinic offers examinations and therapy to area children and adults who have speech defects or are hard of hearing.

In addition to these specific services which the University offers to the area, there are many benefits that are not immediately visible. The University trains the teachers in the schools, the businessmen, and many others who add to the growth and development of communities in Southern Illinois.

To maintain these services and to continue their expansion SIU must have more adequate physical facilities with which to operate. The building appropriations request which is before the General Assembly now is a good start in providing these facilities.

The Life You Save

Today you, your faculty, your administrators are faced with a grave problem . . . life or death for your university.

But even in the far off corners of the 31 counties comprising Southern Illinois, people are wondering if you will win or if Southern will remain the same and let ignorance be its downfall.

Many do not realize that Southern holds the balance of a future for 31 counties in its lands. For most of you students, this territory is your home, where your family lives, and where you will live the rest of your lives.

This part of the state used to be rich with coal mines and little was heard of permanent employment. Now, the coal mines are gone and unhappy Rip Van Winkles prevail.

Southern's Community Development Department, the largest in the world, has stepped into these destitute communities and organized their governments and helped them to help themselves. Its trained crew has helped bring industry into this territory.

But industry isn't the only answer. Not everyone can work in a factory. There are the farmers who have planned the wrong crop year after year. The appropriations bill before the legislature provides for a new agriculture building and money for research. Farmers and future farmers will be given a knowledge of the soil that Southern Illinois needs so badly.

Your university has denied the right of an education to no one. This fall Southern went to Menard State Prison. The inmates wanted to learn: Southern said yes.

So you — 6,250 fold — have the fate of a million in your hands. Two years ago the same problem arose. Students wrote to their legislators, their parents, friends and relatives telling them how much they wanted new dormitories and their new library to open.

Longfellow once summed it up like this: "But to act, that each tomorrow brings us farther than today."

Resident Fellow Gets Training

Students Say Position Aids In Understanding

By Ruth Ann Reeves

"The resident fellow program gives the student acting as resident fellow an opportunity to work with students and to learn about their problems, their hopes, their frustrations and their goals," Bob Walker, resident fellow of Dowdell Hall No. 3, said.

Applications for resident fellow positions for the 1957-58 school year are being made between now and March 1, a few of the resident fellows have been asked their ideas on the program.

Walker named among desired traits for resident fellows open-mindedness, understanding of human weaknesses, unselfishness, and the ability to assume responsibility and mediate differences.

"When a problem arises," Walker said, "rather than condemn an action, the resident fellow needs to seek the cause of the problem. It is his job to develop some sort of unity within the group. And like any other job, you get out of it exactly what you put into it."

Program Began In 1951

The resident fellow program began in 1951 with five men appointed to serve in the Dowdell Halls. This year there are 24 men and nine women resident fellows in the University residence halls and six men and two women in off-campus housing. It is estimated that the number will reach 50 in 1957-58.

Sending academic ability and social and emotional maturity were pointed out as outstanding requirements by Mildred Schroter, coordinator of student housing.

In addition, applicants must be willing to carry not more than a normal course load (16 quarters for undergraduates and 12 quarters a three-hour guidance course fall and winter quarters, Miss Schroter said.

Must Represent University

"The resident fellow is a representative of the University and must conduct himself as such at all times," Miss Schroterberger said. "His general responsibilities include living with a small group of students and assisting the Resident Counselor in working with individuals and planning group activities."

Twenty hours a week of scheduled time in the residence hall plus meetings and committee work are required of the resident fellow. Payment is room and board plus tuition, in addition to the value of training and experience.

"If you are planning to go into personnel, resident fellow work gives a lot of valuable training," Don Gibbs, resident fellow at Illinois Avenue, said.

Marilyn Michaels, Woody Hall resident fellow, said of the program: "I like the contact I have with the students. I would recommend the program highly to students who enjoy counseling and personnel work."

"The fact that resident fellows are students gives them an advantage in getting the confidence of the students and helping them to solve their problems," Miss Michaels said.

Dorothy Hamilton, another resident fellow from Woody Hall, described the resident fellow position as a referral agency. "The resident fellow refers students who need specialized help to the proper people," she said.

"One disadvantage of the program," Miss Hamilton said, "is that you are allowed to be in only one other activity on campus, but first loyalty is to the residence hall, and often you must sacrifice your own plans to cope with unexpected problems which arise in the hall."

Applications, which must be turned in by March 1, are available at Miss Schroter's office in the Office of Student Affairs or from Jack Buckle, Thompson Point; Jim Burgevine, Illinois Avenue Residence Hall; Joe Biddle, Southern Acres; and Janet Lindgren, Woody Hall.

Just saw a copy of "The History," published by the SIU Press. Wasn't very interesting. Few typographical errors.

Everything seems to be multiplying at Southern. enrollment, faculty, problems, and now the mascots are getting into the act.

'Gypsy Fiddler'

Student Fiddles For Supper At Cafe

By Joe Melosi

A boy of medium build, clad in navy blue flannel trousers and light blue checked shirt, found that "fiddlin' around" paid off.

His face beamed, and his foot kept time with the rhythm of the violin he was playing. He held a bow which he saved melodiously back and forth across the instrument.

Interested diners in hoodies and slacks at Westella's Cafe watched him put bow to fiddle to the tune of "Turkey in the Straw." Coffee drinkers at the counter spun on the stools to look on.

Seems resembling excerpts from square dance emitted from the not-stops.

Joe Drew, sophomore, held the attention of those who weren't too busy to look up from their plates.

Joe Takes Break

He finished the number and answered a beckon to the table of an inquisitive reporter. He reassured a patron that he would be right back as soon as he finished eating.

Buzzing conversation started again and during for many resumed. Surprised customers who had just walked in took their seats and set the guy with the fiddle.

Joe was just taking a little break. He was just fiddlin' for supper. "But sometimes, that piece 'Turkey in the Straw' wears your arm out," he said.

Nineteen-year-old Joe smiled as he told how incidentally it all happened. He had nonchalantly walked into Westella's Cafe carrying a violin case.

"I sat down and Westella, owner and operator of the cafe, asked for my order," he said.

"She asked me if I could play something on the violin.

"Will you?"

"Yes," I said.

Free Meal Offered

"O k, if you'll play for a little while in here, I'll give you your meal free," Westella said.

"You got a deal," I said.

His face flushed when someone told him he was good. In one of the booths lined against the wall some one called to Joe to play some thing.

He excused himself and answered the request, fiddling the cafe with dinner music ala virginia reel.

By the time a strak had disappeared from the plate in front of me, Joe took another short break.

Beginner On Fiddle

"I've only been playing the fiddle for two years," Joe said. "I started out playing the accordion, then moved around with string and guitar. I picked up the fiddle one day and started playing it and have played it at many square dances at my home town of Walnutville."

A man from another table attracted Joe's attention and requested a number.

Conversation consensus at the table became, "the kid is good."

Joe was up again. He played another request. Once again, it was resin on the bow and go, go, Joe.

Meanwhile, back at the table, we agreed that a full stomach for free just "fiddlin' around."

Community Concert Features Antal Dorati, Symphony

By WARREN TALLEY

At precisely 8 p.m., Wednesday evening, Feb. 6, a baton will be in his movements.

The man behind the baton will be Antal Dorati, famous arranger, conductor, composer, and musical director of the renowned Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

The concert will be presented in Shryock Auditorium under the sponsorship of the Carbonade Community Concert Series and Robert D. Finner, SIU English professor.

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra will present two concerts while on campus. An afternoon young people's concert will be directed by Gerald Seaman, and the evening performance will be led by the artistic gestures of Dorati.

Now slightly past 50, the Budapest-born musical director has been a conductor for 30 years. At 18, he started conducting opera in his home town.

Educated in Budapest
He received his education at the Budapest Academy of Music, and was trained as a conductor, pianist, and composer, emerging as the youngest person in the history of the school to receive a degree.

Young Dorati spent the next years as musical director of some of the foremost ballet companies of the world. While with the ballet he conducted performances at Covent Garden, London, as well as the Teatro del Liceo, Barcelona, New York's Metropolitan and in many cities in Austria.

His American debut as a symphonic conductor came at the turn-of-the-century Dorati has established himself as a foremost exponent of his art in capitals abroad during his summer vacation periods.

He is especially well known for his guest conducting in Holland and Italy. Last summer he extended his operations to include concerts in Argentina, Chile, and Colombia.

Program
The program to be presented by Dorati and the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra is as follows:
"Overture to 'La Cenerentola'"
"Rhapsody" and "Symphony No. 2 in D Major" by Brahms. The Brahms number will last approximately 45 minutes.

Following the intermission, the orchestra will present Richard Strauss' "Tone Poem, 'Don Juan.'" "Three Rhymers" by Walter de Biogge.

Symphonic fragments from Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe" will follow the concert to close.

SUNDAY MOVIE
"Men of Aram," an Irish movie presented by Robert Flaherty, famous group explorer, is a timeless, moving and inspiring portrait of human courage, dignity and endurance. Here Flaherty is at his best in a spot where the eternal struggle of man against nature was staged.

The visual qualities of land and sea, and were perceived full scope in camera work. The climax of the movie is the shark hunt and storm attack.

The movie is to be shown in the library auditorium Sunday, Feb. 24 at 2 and 8:30 p.m. The admission price is 40 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

The most unusual fire fight in screen history was staged in the movie "Giant," for perhaps the first time, the hero (Rock Hudson) loses and the heroine (Elizabeth Taylor) is glad of it.

The rally, planned for more than two months, aimed at officially launching a building fund campaign to raise $360,000 for erecting a Wesley Foundation building on campus to serve the 1,000 Methodist students enrolled.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks will ask Congress to pass legislation controlling billboards on federal highways in Illinois. Some they should find a way to control first.

His style of presentation and his own praise for his programs and interpretation.

Whoopi!
An Egyptian photographer got a little rambunctious Wednesday night and ended up sitting on the sidewalk in front of the Bureau's office. Seems the ivy screens were just too much for him and his vehicle.

MAIL BOX

The Egyptian from time to time receives and prints Letters to the Editor in its columns.

One matter which we would like to clear up right now however, is that the editors have the final say so on what goes into the newspaper.

One of the present policies of the Egyptian is that all Letters to the Editor be printed most abridged.

We have received several letters which would make interesting reading, but unfortunately they are either unsigned or carry a pseudo-name such as "A Disgraced Fan."

Just one request please. Sign all letters to the Editor.

If your views are worth expressing, then claim them.

If you want your name withheld, we will do so, but please sign the letter.
